PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Let me start off by wishing everyone Happy Holidays! Hopefully you get to spend some quality time with your loved ones.

Beekeepers either use the end of the calendar year or the Winter Solstice (Dec 21st) to end the bee's year. So, the work now is just to monitor and maintain your bees. I wrapped a couple of hives this weekend and had an interesting observation on the hive with the Broodminder. I could hear the hive start to hum while working on it. Checking the temp of the hive before the disturbance, it was 67 degrees in the lower brood box. The bee's activity shot the temperature up to 88 degrees in two hours, with an outside temperature of 23 degrees. That is some heat generation.

Don't forget about your hives during the winter - they still need some attention. Monitoring the weight of the hives, is a good practice for your winter inspections, to make sure they don't starve out. Also, with the snow fall we are having this year, make sure you are keeping your entrances clear.

Most important activity at the end of the year is some reflection on your beekeeping, while it is still fresh in your mind. What went right for you? What do you want to improve upon? What new skill or challenge do you want to accomplish next year.

Answer those questions and you can start researching for next years beekeeping season while you have some extra time.

- That's what this month's buzz is about

2025 BCBA MEMBER AWARDS

2025 BCBA

Beekeeper of the Year!

This year we honor Dave Elsen as someone who represents the very best of what beekeeping can be — passion, dedication, humility, and a willingness to keep learning no matter how many seasons you've been in the bee yard.

Dave Elsen embodies all of it.

He shows up and gives back. He supports new beekeepers. He stands shoulder-to-shoulder with anyone who needs a hand. And he continually pushes himself to become a better steward of the bees.

This award isn't just about the honey you harvest or the number of colonies you manage — it's about who you are as a beekeeper and as a community member. Dave leads quietly, teaches naturally, and inspires effortlessly.

🔥 Let this be a spark for the rest of us.

Every one of us has the ability to grow, learn, and rise. Whether you're in your first year or your fifteenth, the bee yard rewards those who stay curious, stay humble, and stay engaged.

Thank you, Dave, for raising the bar — and showing us what it looks like to lead with heart.

Here's to a strong 2026 season ahead. Let's rise together.

2025 BCBA

New Beeks of the Year!

We proudly recognized Lucas and Liam Ford as our 2025 New Beeks of the Year, and we couldn't be more excited for these two outstanding young men.

From their very first season, Lucas and Liam have shown the kind of curiosity, work ethic, and patience that every beekeeper needs — and they've done it with maturity far beyond their years. Their willingness to learn, ask questions, share updates, and participate in club activities has made them stand out in the best possible way.

What makes their achievement even more meaningful is the example they're setting for the next generation of youth beekeepers. They prove that beekeeping isn't just a hobby for adults — it's a place where young people can thrive, grow, and lead.

A very special thank you goes out to their mentors, Dave Elsen and Club President Chris Groth, whose guidance, encouragement, and hands-on support have played a huge role in shaping these young beekeepers. Strong youth starts with strong mentors — and our club is lucky to have both.

We're proud of you both — keep inspiring, keep learning, and keep leading the way.

Introduction to Beekeeping Class

Calling All Volunteers – Help Us Welcome the Next Generation of Beekeepers!

Hello Beekeepers!

It's that time of year again – our annual Introduction to Beekeeping Class is just around the corner, and we need your help to make it a success!

- 📅 Date: Saturday, January 17, 2026
- 📍 Location: NWTC Energy Center
- ⌚ Time: 8:00 AM – 2:30 PM

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

This cornerstone event introduces new beekeepers to the fundamentals of hive setup, management, and bee health – and it's powered entirely by our club's volunteers. The class has helped hundreds of new beekeepers take their first confident steps, and this year, we're aiming to make it our best yet.

We're currently finalizing the agenda and instructor lineup, and we still need a few more passionate volunteers to step up and help teach, assist, or support setup and registration.

👉 Here's where we especially need help:

- Registration (7:30–8:00 AM)
- Welcome / Club Overview
- Hive Location & Setup
- Live Equipment Demos
- Hive Inspections & Installations

If you're interested in helping – even for part of the day – your experience and enthusiasm will make a real difference for new beekeepers.

Let's show new beekeepers what our club is all about – education, collaboration, and community.

December Beekeeping Tips – Northeast Wisconsin

Cold weather, warm clusters, smart checks.

Your bees are clustered tight and conserving energy. December is all about watching from the outside and avoiding anything that forces them to break their winter rhythm.

- Don't open hives

Cracking a lid dumps heat and moisture. Only open a colony if you truly suspect a dead-out.

- Check for survival without disturbing them

Use simple, non-invasive signs:

- A gentle tap and soft hum
- Melt patterns in the snow
- Cleansing flights on rare warm days

- Use the Club's FLIR Camera

The BCBA infrared camera lets you confirm cluster location and heat loss without opening the hive.

- Keep entrances clear

A quick swipe after snowfall maintains airflow and prevents moisture buildup.

- Watch for moisture, not cold

Cold doesn't kill colonies – wet + hungry does. Look for condensation on covers or damp landing boards. Improve insulation if needed.

- Emergency feed only if truly light

Slip in dry sugar or a winter patty on a stable above-freezing day. Quick open, quick close.

- Secure your equipment

Wind and storms shift lids, wraps, and insulation. Tighten everything before the deep freeze.
